First of all, thank you for your dedication, your talents and your time devoted to our town. It cannot be easy! We are a small town, with growing pains and challenging issues that our forebears could not have imagined. I am writing to voice my opinion that it is time that we join the majority of towns and cities in the state who have formally addressed the difficult questions of ethics in today's world.

I have been a resident of town since 1969, raised a family here, and ministered 20 years in two different churches in town. I have always been an unaffiliated voter, because I vote by character and not by party. Obviously, though, ethics are a primary concern in my life. My concern is that I am seeing the town I love being torn apart by contentious issues and proposals, and that trust in public officials is being eroded by rumors and ethical concerns.

I know there is a proposal which you are considering to create a code of ethics, along with an ethics commission to oversee it, whose time, I believe, has come. We need an independent, neutral body of residents who would have the responsibility to advise public officials with ethical questions, evaluate questions and concerns, and render decisions. They must be trained for this responsibility, not be employees of the town or members of any commission or board in the town, and not motivated by political agendas.

The town, as any organization, must have clear standards of ethical conduct. Public trust depends upon avoiding even appearances of impropriety. The State of Connecticut had a recommendation that municipalities adopt a code addressing several important issues: conflict of interest, disclosure and recusal, gifts, use of property and information, mis-use of office or position, nepotism, and contracting, including hiring and firing.

I have read concerns that adopting a code will create threats of retroactive complaints, or incur legal expenses for the town. The longer we wait, however, the greater the difficulty. The draft of the code needs some tweaks before being adopted, yes; but unaddressed issues could create even worse legal expenses in years to come. It never works to think problems will disappear if we ignore them!
